

Hamish's Blog

Hi Everybody!

Snow Show Show! I absolutely love the snow! I had an amazing time playing in the snow. I can't stop saying snow! Well, we don't snow that often so I want to make the most of it. I was really pleased that school was still open so I could see my friends.

Allow me to introduce this term's Hamish News Hounds! They will spend the next few weeks writing a report about something extra doggy special! I'll also be taking them out for a fun visit so keep reading my blog to see what we are getting up to.

I've had great fun lately playing with some of my friends in school. A few children hid some yummy treats in my snuffle mat and I wasn't allowed to find them until they answered some maths questions correctly. Lucky my friends knew the answers and I was allowed to rummage through! They even shook it out to see if I had found them all. I didn't leave a crumb!

One of my friends sometimes gets worried about coming into school so he takes me out into the garden to help him feel better. I think I got a bit distracted out there as I started to dig a hole. He couldn't get me away! I love to make my friends laugh!

Being a school dog is really fun but I do get tired and need a rest sometimes. It's important to get enough sleep so you are always ready to learn. See you soon friends!
