

Ms White

My favourite book when I was a child was George's Marvellous Medicine by Roald Dahl. I loathed George's horrible grandmother and loved how George got the ultimate revenge by concocting a mixture which had hilarious consequences on the old woman. I remember roaring with laughter and then trying to make my own marvellous mixtures at home (although I did not feed them to my grandmother – she was lovely!)